Description

A brightly colored circular structure is broken into separate rooms or "stalls". Men, women and children walk throughout and mingle with the livestock which includes bulls, horses, cows and a giraffe. There is also a figure of a man (on all fours) who is dressed in black, and has a tail. There are six flags waving from the roof. Some are irregular in shape but are painted in tricolors (similar to the Mexican flag). Over the entrance to the building is a tablet with a flag, behind which a person sits. A few other figures walk on the roof, and on top of one of the two spires sits a large megaphone; wire-reinforced clay and paint; hand molded and painted.
